

CAM Can Help With ePublishing

CAM’s editorial and production team currently produces more than 300 publications in a variety of formats, including reference sets, CD-ROMs, PDFs, and electronic books (or “e-books”). With CAM’s ePublishing expertise, your members and customers can experience convention programs, journals, magazines, and technical documents with links and videos directly embedded in this interactive format. Today, many people—including your members and customers—expect to be able to download content to their iPads, Kindles, smart phones, and other e-readers. CAM can help you cater to their needs.

Reasons to consider ePublishing:

- Produce an enhanced version of print publications that includes video and linked content
- Increased portability of your published materials
- Ability to distribute through multiple digital channels, including Apple iBooks, Amazon, Barnes & Noble Nook, websites
- Producing an ePublication is affordable (Actual cost is determined by several factors)
- Production of an ePublication can be completed in as quickly as one afternoon (Actual production time depends on many factors)
